The background of the entire page is a photograph of a lush green golf course. In the foreground, there's a well-manicured green with a sand trap on the left. A small pond with a fountain is in the middle ground. Behind the trees, a large, modern building with a blue glass facade and a distinctive orange-tinted upper section is visible. On top of the building is a large, spherical tower with a geometric, white and gold pattern. The sky is blue with scattered white clouds.

THE AMERICAN INDIGENOUS TOURISM CONFERENCE IS THE ONLY NATIONAL CONFERENCE DEDICATED TO GROWING CULTURAL TOURISM IN AMERICA'S INDIGENOUS COMMUNITIES.

ABOUT THE AMERICAN INDIGENOUS TOURISM CONFERENCE

Now in its 27th year, the American Indigenous Tourism Conference (AITC) is the only national event dedicated to advancing cultural tourism in Indigenous communities across the U.S. Each year, AITC brings together more than 300 attendees, offering unparalleled networking opportunities, dynamic keynote sessions, and insightful breakout discussions led by top hospitality industry experts.

THE IMPACT OF TOURISM ON THE U.S. ECONOMY Tourism plays a vital role in the American economy, contributing nearly 3% of the national Gross Domestic Product and supporting 9.5 million jobs. Indigenous lands offer unique cultural, heritage, culinary, and agritourism experiences, creating significant economic benefits for Native communities. Additionally, Native American, Alaska Native, and Native Hawaiian enterprises contribute to local, regional, state, and federal tax bases, making Indigenous tourism a powerful driver of economic growth.

THE STRENGTH OF NATIVE-OWNED HOSPITALITY BUSINESSES The hospitality sector is a key industry for Indigenous entrepreneurs, with one in four Native-owned businesses operating in tourism-related fields. These businesses, totaling more than 40,000, employ over 110,000 Native and non-Native workers and generate more than $15.7 billion in annual sales. Notably, Indigenous hospitality businesses outperform their non-hospitality counterparts in both revenue and employment, highlighting the sector's strong potential for continued growth.

AITC'S ROLE IN INDIGENOUS TOURISM The American Indigenous Tourism Conference fosters greater inclusion of Native communities within the broader tourism industry while empowering tribes to define and achieve their own success in cultural tourism. AITC serves as a platform for critical discussions, equipping Indigenous businesses and communities with the resources needed to develop, grow, and sustain tourism initiatives.

SPONSOR AITC Sponsors of AITC play a crucial role in advancing Indigenous tourism by supporting AIANTA's mission to create economic opportunities for Native communities. Sponsorship helps fund essential programs, training, and strategic initiatives that promote sustainable cultural tourism across Indigenous lands.
